

Spring 2025

Graduate Sociology Courses

SOCI 5200 – Research Methods and Design *

G. Seçkin Tu 2P–5P; GAB 330D

Research designs; techniques of sampling and scaling; problems of reliability and validity; consideration of appropriate tests of association and significance. Prerequisite(s): SOCI 3220 or equivalent, or consent of program chair or instructor.

SOCI 5301/6301 – Intermediate Social Statistics **

R. Kwon Tu 6P–9P; GAB 330D

Application of regression and related methods to analyze data in sociology and related disciplines. Topics include bivariate and multiple ordinary least squares linear regression models, diagnostics, moderating and mediating effects, logistic regression, and use of statistical software for conducting these analyses. Students may not receive credit for both SOCI 5301 and SOCI 6301.

SOCI 5350/6703 – Seminar on Urbanization

A. Helmuth W 6P–9P; PHYS 112

Application of ecological and demographic methods to the study of urban and metropolitan development; sociological aspects of urban and metropolitan problems and planning. Students may not receive credit for both SOCI 5350 and SOCI 6703.

SOCI 5650/6503 – Sociology of Education

P. Ho Th 2P–5P; LANG 316

Advanced examination of the interrelationships of schools and communities in American society; comparative application of sociological concepts to the study of schools as social systems. Students may not receive credit for both SOCI 5650 and SOCI 6503.

SOCI 5702/6702 – Environmental Sociology

D. Yeatts Th 6P–9P; COL 047

Advanced analysis of the field of environmental sociology, including the nature of the relationship between humans, their societies, and their environments. Students may not receive credit for both SOCI 5702 and SOCI 6702.

Spring 2025 registration opens Monday, October 7.

For questions, email sociology@unt.edu

* Required for MS

 Required for Pass-Through / PhD

Last updated: 9/18/2024